

Plagiarism: How Profs Spot a Cheat

The American university campus is a fairly safe environment for a stealthy cheat. That's a fact. Numerous term paper websites and research services cheat sites are used by many college students pressed for time or otherwise inclined to lift papers rather than compose assignments on their own. But what many students don't seem to realize is that their professors can be just as adept at spotting a plagiarized paper as students are at plagiarizing. Professors have their own technologically sophisticated ways of telling whether or not a student really wrote a paper on his/her own. This small handbook will give readers the inside scoop on how profs spot a cheat. What students are saying: Don't get busted! Read Professor Quickwit's handbook on how profs spot a cheat. Guaranteed.
