

HURRICANES AND HANDBAGS: Women at War in the Air Transport Auxiliary (ATA) (Woman at War Book 1)

Hurricanes and Handbags is part of series of short stories commemorating the bravery and courage of women serving in the armed forces during times of conflict. It tells the remarkable story of a group of women whose service to their country was nothing short of outstanding. why? because most of the fighters and bombers delivered to our pilots on the frontline were flown by young female pilots serving in the Air Transport Auxiliary (ATA). And without them and their truly heroic efforts, the outcome for us could have been very different.
