

In a Perfect World:

In a perfect world, we would never have a broken heart...but ours is not a perfect world...so I write the words you may never read and share them with those who will understand...until the world is perfect...again. With our busy lives, with the text message, the email, the cell phone we communicate at lightening speed, but rarely talk anymore. Technology is an amazing thing, but it cannot touch us in those places deep in our hearts and souls where only another human being can touch us. In a Perfect World is a compilation of many emotional writings. In these pages, you will see the full range of emotion from love to hatred, from fear to peace. Every reader will easily find something that can relate to events in their own lives. The goal of the author is to touch readers in those places in the heart and soul that may not have been touched in a very long time.
