

I Prayed for Patience God Gave Me Children

Parenting is the hardest job in the world. God knows we are frail and forgives our mistakes. Whats more, He stands in the gap, making up for our deficiencies. I believe God invented parenting to show us His wisdom, grace, and mercy as our Father, says Rondeau. Parents are also Gods children, experiencing the same chaos, misadventure, and heartache as their charges, humorously demonstrated through a compilation of vignettes, quotes, illustrations, and witticisms. Award-winning author, Linda Wood Rondeau has maintained a religious column in The Malone Telegram since 2005, currently entitled, This Daily Grind, Her blog of the same title features vignettes that humorously demonstrate how God speaks to us through the mundane of life. Mother of three and grandmother of nine, the author is a veteran social worker, now residing in Florida with her most patient husband of thirty-five years. When not writing, her second passion is golf. You may find out more about Linda Wood Rondeau at her website, www.lindarondeau.com. She enjoys hearing from her readers through Goodreads, Facebook and Twitter.
