

Rhymes of The Firing Line

Copyright, 1912 By Desmond FitzGerald, Inc. A remarkable collection of war and military themed poems by Damon Runyon, later to be a master of the short story. About the Author: Alfred Damon Runyon (October 4, 1880 December 10, 1946) was an American newspaperman and author. He was best known for his short stories celebrating the world of Broadway in New York City that grew out of the Prohibition era. To New Yorkers of his generation, a Damon Runyon character evoked a distinctive social type from the Brooklyn or Midtown demi-monde. The adjective Runyonesque refers to this type of character as well as to the type of situations and dialog that Runyon depicted. He spun humorous and sentimental tales of gamblers, hustlers, actors, and gangsters, few of whom go by square names, preferring instead colorful monikers such as Nathan Detroit, Benny Southstreet, Big Jule, Harry the Horse, Good Time Charley, Dave the Dude, or The Seldom Seen Kid. His distinctive vernacular style is known as Runyonesque: a mixture of formal speech and colorful slang, almost always in present tense, and always devoid of contractions. He is credited with coining the phrase Hooray Henry, a term now used in British English to describe an upper-class, loud-mouthed, arrogant twit. Runyons fictional world is also known to the general public through the musical Guys and Dolls based on two of his stories, The Idyll of Miss Sarah Brown and Blood Pressure. The musical additionally borrows characters and story elements from a few other Runyon stories, most notably Pick The Winner. The film Little Miss Marker (and its two remakes, Sorrowful Jones and the 1980 Little Miss Marker) grew from his short story of the same name. Runyon was also a newspaperman. He wrote the lead article for UP on Franklin Delano Roosevelt's Presidential inauguration in 1933.
