C. H. Spurgeon (1834-1892) was the foremost preacher of his time and pastored a large church in London. He was the great Victorian preacher, a leading campaigner against liberal theology, and one of the most influential people of the second half of the 19th century. He was called the prince of preachers and had significant effect on both church and society. The congregations that heard him preach were truly vast; it is estimated that on a normal Sunday he would preach to upwards of 10,000 people. Spurgeon had the gift of getting right to the heart of a matter in a style that was memorable and profound. At the heart of his desire to preach was a fierce love of people, a desire that meant that he did not neglect his pastoral ministry.
